Work involves collecting, preparing, and reviewing cases to facilitate access to medical, educational, social, and other services and providing intervention and frequent contact with individuals, facilities, and service providers. May supervise the work of others. Works under limited supervision, with considerable latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment.

EXAMPLES OF WORK PERFORMED

Coordinates and reviews casework services for adults or children with physical, mental, emotional, and social problems.

Coordinates interviews of clients, their families and friends, or authorized representatives to collect information necessary to determine program eligibility or to obtain social and developmental history and status.

Reviews life needs assessments, and develops and selects appropriate client support or treatment plans.

Certifies service eligibility, computes benefit amounts, and determines certification period lengths.

Explains program benefits, requirements, rights of appeal, and fair hearings to clients and their families.

Monitors clients’ case status and communicates status to their families and relevant service providers.

Provides training, consultation, and technical assistance to staff, program contractors, and program providers.

May conduct program analysis and research, assess service needs, formulate program plans, and oversee the preparation and justification of budget estimates.
May speak to community groups, attend board and community meetings, and serve on committees.

May assist psychiatrists, physicians, and other medical professionals in the rehabilitation of patients.

May testify in court as a technical authority on human service-related issues.

May supervise the work of others.

Performs related work as assigned.
